ABOUT PETE BROWN

In 1964, Pete Brown rallied to win the Waco Turner Open in Oklahoma, becoming the first black golfer to ever win on the PGA Tour. But that was after a long hard road of ups and downs. Pete was born in 1935, in Port Gibson, Mississippi, into a family of sharecroppers. His father, George, was a Baptist minister. As a youngster, Pete chopped cotton and picked peas. The family moved to Jackson when he was 10 and he soon gravitated to the Livingston Park golf course where he became a caddie, making 35 cents for nine holes and 55 cents for 18. Blacks were not allowed to play that course or any in the city, but at night Brown said he and the other caddies would sneak out and play a few holes near the woods until they were chased off.

Brown competed in the 1950s on what was called the "Chitlin Circuit." He captured four Negro National Opens and three North & South Championships before earning his PGA Tour card in 1963. He won the Waco Turner in 1964, and also that year, he became the first Black to compete in the PGA Championship, tying for 33rd. While Brown was winning in Oklahoma, his wife Margaret was in Los Angeles, pregnant with their youngest of six daughters. That evening, after a one-stroke victory over Dan Sikes, he called her from his hotel room. "Well, I won a tournament for you and I want to see the kids," said Pete. It took a long time for that to sink in. "That's wonderful," said Margaret. "Quit lying to me." "No, I won the tournament," said Pete. "I made history."

MAYOR'S THANK YOU

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to Richard's Disposal for serving as Presenting Sponsor for this year's event. Their generosity has led to an increased donation to both of the junior golf programs that operate out of Pete Brown. Both the First Tee of Central Mississippi and the Grove Park Junior Golf Clinic will receive checks directly from Richard's, and we are thrilled to have facilitated the connection. But let me also thank all of our sponsors... hole sponsors, beverage cart sponsors, prize sponsors, and all of the players participating as well. Your dollars will go directly to golf course improvements in the form of added equipment needed to continue keeping the course in the best shape it has been in years.
